Overview

Is Vietnam ready for a competitive bidding mechanism for solar energy?

Vietnam is now developing a competitive bidding mechanism for solar energy to improve grid efficiency, promote competition, and ensure a stable energy supply, but it's currently in the works and hasn't been implemented yet. As such, Vietnam has been in a transition phase since the end of the FiT policy.

What does Vietnam's Solar Policy update mean for energy storage?

Vietnam's solar policy update highlights growing role of energy storage. (Photo: iStock) Vietnam's Ministry of Industry and Trade (MOIT) has announced a new round of feed-in tariffs (FIT) for solar power, introducing location-based pricing and, for the first time, incorporating energy storage systems.

How do solar tariffs work in Vietnam?

Under the revised tariff framework, solar installations are categorized into ground-mounted and floating types, and are further segmented by region—North, Central, and South Vietnam. Rates are adjusted based on factors such as solar resource availability, cost structure, and local grid demand. The inclusion of storage also affects pricing.

Could Vietnam replace fixed feed-in tariffs with standardized auctions?

As global costs for solar, wind, and battery storage systems fall, Vietnam could replace fixed feed-in tariffs (FiTs) with standardized competitive auctions to procure clean energy at the lowest cost.
